

Frühjahrstagung 2018 – Villach

Young Investigator Awards (1.000 Euro)

Impaired Monocyte to Osteoclast Differentiation Potential
Affects the Hematopoietic Niche and Results in Myelodysplasia
Lukas Kazianka, Wien

Efficacy of Venetoclax as a Single Agent and in Combination with 5-Azacytidine in Refractory or Relapsed Tprolymphocytic Leukaemia
Christoph Kornauth, Wien

Increased expression of micro-RNA-23a causes resistance to cytarabine in acute myeloid leukemia
Stefan Hatzl, Graz

Specific translation initiation factors influence clinical course of aggressive lymphomas
Julia Unterluggauer, Graz

Lower expression of distinct chemokine - and nuclear orphan receptors in aggressive follicular lymphoma (progressing within 24 months)
Tanja Schukkoff, Graz

GPR56 is a putative marker of leukemic stem cells in CD34 -positive acute myeloid leukemia
Shruti Daga, Graz

Posterpreis Onkologie (500 Euro)

MiR-371a-3p as a diagnostic biomarker for detection of recurrence in testicular germ cell tumours
Martin Pichler, Graz

Posterpreis Hämatologie (500 Euro)

Myc-driven lymphomagenesis together with loss of Nr4a1 causes increased dissemination potential and impacts the composition of immune cells in the tumor microenvironment
Karoline Fechter, Graz

Die Young Investigator Awards und die Posterpreise wurden mit freundlicher Unterstützung der Janssen-Cilag Pharma GmbH vergeben!